

Dear Ski Friends,

After a great deal of work by many we wish to invite you to the North American FIS TD Updates for 2013/14 Season. Most likely you have received an email from us via Constant Contact, but in case you haven't, you may use this email as an invite to register for the fall updates. You may go to www.nafistd.com to view details and links to register for the updates.

Denver, Colorado – October 25-27, 2013

Ottawa, Ontario – November 1-3, 2013

North American FIS TD Updates 2013 Invitation and Announcement

Dear Alpine Ski Racing Colleagues:

Alpine FIS TD Updates for North America are returning to our well-known format of shared hosting on alternating weekends between our USA/Canada partnership. This after a successful first-ever single-event-only format for Update 2012 in Las Vegas. As Elvis found out, once you've played Vegas it's all downhill from there, but that suits us perfectly. We wish you safe travels to whichever event you are attending (Denver or Ottawa) and thank you in advance for setting aside your valuable time to attend at your own expense. We would urge you to help us by registering with us and the hotels as early as possible. We would also ask you to please extend this announcement and all details for registration to as many alpine ski-racing colleagues as you can. All interested parties are welcome, and again, early registration is a great help to us. The 2013-14 alpine season will provide interesting challenges and issues as there are many new equipment regulations and rules changes that will be applied. As always we depend on you to be fully up to date on these important changes and to keep safety and fairness as the top priorities while doing so. The effects and excitement of the 2012 Las Vegas experience notwithstanding, even Elvis went back to Denver and he even played Ottawa (April, 1957). Some of you were FIS TD's then so you may have been on the 'Rock n' Roll Cannon Ball' train that brought concert goers to town. Although we can't commit to the same convivial transport we can guarantee the same level of excitement and quality of content.

Please reach us with any questions, again please make arrangements and reservations early, and accept our thanks for your extraordinary contributions to our sport.

Sincerely,

Paul Van Slyke & Ted Savage
FIS TD Commissioner's for USA & CAN
