5. USSA Chairman's Report: Dexter Paine

Paine stated that he hoped that everyone had had an enjoyable summer. He noted that there was a lot going on so far and that he would provide a couple of quick updates. He said that we had been successful in getting the FIS Alpine World Championships awarded to Vail in 2015. It had been a huge team effort between the Vail Valley Foundation and the USSA. He stated that Bill Marolt and Hank Tauber had led the effort on our behalf; he commented that it will have been 16 years since the last FIS Alpine World Championships in North America. He said that he thought it would be great for the sport. He said that the competition had been fierce, and that it was a tremendous job, winning on the first ballot. Not to be forgotten were the Freestyle World Championships in Deer Valley this year at the end of January. He said that Deer Valley always did a tremendous job and that Deer Valley would provide the USSA with an excellent opportunity to showcase our team at a great venue.

A couple of high points on the USOC and the FIS front, he reported that Nina Kempel had been responsible for a report just delivered to the USOC board on sexual harassment and USA Swimming. From what he had heard, she had done a tremendous job and was an example of the high profile that skiing, the USSA and our athletes had within the FIS and the USOC. Our people had taken on responsibilities and challenges within those organizations,

In terms of the remainder of the summer, there would be an executive session at the end.

Paine asked Bill Marolt to provide a quick update on the organization.

6. USSA Chief Executive Officer's Report: Bill Marolt

Marolt stated that there were three things he wanted to talk about: (1) to update everyone on what had taken place over the last three months, (2) talk a little more about the FIS and Vail and then (3) update the board on what was taking place at the USOC.

The summer had gone well for the organization with the teams' physical testing and ongoing training. There were some challenges in the southern hemisphere with snow and weather but because staff and athletes responded well to that, they had great training and were all encouraged going into the new season. He said that Luke Bodensteiner, the head coaches and the program directors were all doing well and exhibiting good leadership. The final tune-up camps were taking place and all sports were entering the season in good shape and ready to compete.

On the Sales & Marketing side, Andrew Judelson had been doing a really good job with renewals. He commented that they were currently in Boston making a joint announcement with Putnam; it was a great four-year partnership and business opportunity, and he was excited about that.

On the Foundation side, our big opportunities there were the gold pass program, which was slightly ahead of last year's pace. At the same time, he added, there was a way to go. He said it was a big contribution at the $10,000 level. There was still work to do there. Trace Worthington and his staff were moving ahead with that. The Special Events department was moving along well with the events to date. The Silicon Valley event was slightly under budget, but it provided the opportunity to find four gold pass donations. He said that they were looking good in Boston for the event taking place that evening and that looking ahead to New York and Chicago, we were likely to have successful events there. He said that there was a stretch to achieve the revenue numbers but we were working to hit the targets.

One of the areas that had been updated was going out into the fundraising world and finding a good number two. He said that Karen Sendelback had been hired as the Director of Development in Foundation with the task of directing the major gifts, telemarketing, direct mail and gold pass programs. She had run two large Foundations before taking this position. He said that we would be doing better once she came onto the team on the 18th.

For the FIS, the main thing was being awarded the 2015 FIS Alpine World Championships. The USSA would be a big part of that Organizing Committee going forward. He had spent some time with Ceil Folz, Harry Frampton and VVF to make sure that he was integrated into the Executive Committee; Dexter would be on the Organizing Committee and all the USSA vice presidents in their respective areas would work with the organization's committees. The goal was to do a great job. Inside of the fence, they were confident of the event; the challenge was to make sure that it was not just a Vail Valley or Colorado event. We needed to ensure that it was a national and international event at the same time. He commented that there were four and a half years to get this done. His belief was that it would be an outstanding World Championship.

On the USOC side, there had been a lot of activity. First there was really positive leadership on the part of Larry Probst, who succeeded Peter Ueberroth as chairman. He had taken a lot of input on how the USOC board should function. Along with Scott Blackmun, they were doing a terrific job of providing direction and leadership. Marolt suggested that it was one of the first times that he had witnessed cohesion on the part of the USOC.

He added that the relationship between the USSA and the USOC which was very good on a staff-to-staff basis would continue to grow and improve. When Larry Probst and Scott Blackmun assumed their positions, they formed a study group that was chaired by Paul Tagliabue and implemented the changes suggested by the working group to the current governance structure by expanding the USOC board by four members, giving the NGBs and the AAC greater participation at the board level. They had given Scott Blackmun, as the chief executive, non-voting membership on the board. They extended the length of time to serve on the board and eliminated the term limit for the chairman of the board. All of those were positive and would ultimately create a stronger USOC.

Marolt said that Dexter Paine had talked briefly about what was being called a Safe Training Environment that related to the issues with which USA Swimming was dealing. He emphasized that the board should know that the USSA had worked hard over the last four years on background checks of members and that we had positioned ourselves well, given the circumstances. There was still more work that could be done to ensure a safe training environment for youngsters to be involved and to ensure that our staff at the national level and at the club level understood their roles and responsibilities and managed and led in an effective way.

Again because of Larry Probst and Scott Blackmun, the USOC had also started to improve its relationship with the IOC. That relationship had been contentious over the last several years, primarily revolved around the share of revenue that the USOC received from the IOC television rights. He stated that the USOC had offered up some concessions in that area which had been well received, but there were still tough negotiations ahead. The IOC relationship going forward would improve and, as a result, we would hopefully see an Olympic Winter Games back in the US sometime in the relatively near future. He said that concluded his report.

Paine asked if there were any questions from the board members and there were none. He stated that one thing he was thrilled about was that Alan Ashley had assumed a more senior staff position as Chief of Sport. Marolt said that Alan Ashley, for those who did not know, had just been appointed to that position, which was a huge position, analogous to the Vice President of Athletics. He said Ashley had done his usual great job there and that, under his leadership, the USOC would be better and this would strengthen our partnership as well. He said he was very encouraged by what was going on in Colorado Springs.

Paine asked Mark Lampe to provide the fiscal 2011 forecast.

7. USSA Financial Report: Mark Lampe

Lampe said that what was on the slide was the fiscal 2011 budget and forecast. He said that the budget had been updated from the early look in the spring to include the initiatives that were put into play for this year. The forecast, it was early to predict as it was only October. He commented that November was when they had a better idea of where the revenue would finish. What was being presented was what was known to date.

In Sales & Marketing, the almost $6.6 million in the forecast had about $1.5 million of deals that were not yet signed but were very likely and were very far along in the either the renewal or new deal process. There were also some likely opportunities that weren't as far along that could generate another $1.5 million. Lampe would be able to hone this in the next couple of months in time for the December report to the Board of Trustees.

On fundraising, he commented that we were forecasting about where we were last year. He said that we were a bit behind in the Inner Circle gifts but that he anticipated that the trustee gifts would come in at their usual level and we needed a bit of pickup in the non-trustee Inner Circle level gifts. He said that we would by then see how the ball season had done. The momentum was not yet there, but there was some promise.

The Team Sochi program was budgeted for the full number of 34. This was a little less than year one of the Team Vancouver program commitment, but we believed it achievable. There were 10 written pledges already and another 19 verbal pledges so we were working to get those into written commitments and achieving that target.

The other revenues were typical streams. The USOC did approve their grant at the same level, excluding the Olympic grants from last season so this revenue remained flat. In a couple of other areas there had been revenue pick up, such as in the FIS base-level grant.

On the athletic side, he commented that the board might recall from the spring meetings that we added about $900,000 of core projects back into the budget that had had to be eliminated from the FY '10 budget. He said that we were getting closer to having the type of core projects back in place with all of our programs. We added that we still needed more emphasis on the domestic level programs, which would be added as revenue streams recovered.

The savings in elite programs were as a result of the timing of new hires. Bodensteiner now had the staffing that he required and the Athletic department was off and rolling.

There was one overrun in Events in that the exchange rate on prize money was hurting the USSA as prize money was based on Swiss francs, which were higher currently against the dollar than what we had historically be incurring.

In Sales, General & Administrative, the hiring has been a little quicker and costing a bit more and we were seeing the employee health insurance costs rise, the November renewal showing the impact of what the pricing was going to be on health care under the new plan. He said that we were working hard to minimize that impact; we would know more in November at the conclusion of the process what that hit would really end up being. He was hoping to keep it within that range, but it might be higher.

He said that we weren't out of the woods yet. We were forecasting a deficit so there was still work to be done. He added that we had managed through these types of numbers in the past and the revenue numbers should start to pick up momentum to cover that deficit number and bring us toward the operating surplus for which we'd be looking.

Paine asked if there were any questions for Mark. The question was asked, if you looked at the year before (2009) what would the Athletic budget have been then? Lampe replied that the budget for the elite teams was about $12.6 million and that would have been the budget prior to January 2009 cuts to keep on balance for the year, so we finished that year lower than that; he acknowledged that we weren't all the way back in all programs, but that we were getting there.

8. Questions from the USSA Board on Staff Reports: Dexter Paine

There were no questions on the reports to the board. Paine asked Alex Natt to cover the legal and judicial reports.

9. Legal and Judicial Reports: Alex Natt

Natt stated that he was happy to report that it had been quiet on the legal front. At the last meeting he had reported on the property tax assessment and the USSA's appeal. He reported that we had appeared before the Utah Property Tax Appeal Board in July and were awaiting the decision on the appeal. If we prevailed, the county had said that they would not appeal the decision.

In the good news front, USSA was currently not a named defendant in any litigation, which was a tremendous thing, so great job on the part of the staff. He wanted to also thank Mike Berry of the National Ski Areas Association, the trade association for ski area owners and operators, and the USSA staff who had spent a lot of time since the spring educating our partners about the USSA's insurance portfolio which had gone a long way to giving people a greater ease upon their gaining an understanding of the insurance coverage we have.

To the Judicial report, he said there was one pending grievance that dealt with the team naming and funding process and he was not going to speak to the specifics but he would report back to the board on the matter once it was completed. That concluded the legal and judicial reports and he said that he would be happy to answer questions once the board was in executive session.

10. USSA Old Business: Dexter Paine

There was no old business to be brought before the board.

11. USSA New Business: Dexter Paine

Paine asked Alex Natt to address the new business. Natt said that there were a few items of new business, the first was the standard USSA Corporate Resolution & Officer Authority that we asked the board to approve on an annual basis and he read the first three paragraphs of the document into the record:

USSA CORPORATE RESOLUTION & OFFICER AUTHORITY

U. S. SKI AND SNOWBOARD ASSOCIATION BOARD RESOLUTION

RESOLVED, That the Chief Executive Officer and/or Chief Financial Officer are hereby jointly and severally authorized and empowered on behalf of this Company and its affiliates to purchase and acquire, and to exercise options and/or rights for the purchase and acquisition of stocks, bonds, rights, warrants, and other securities, and to sell, assign and transfer all or any stock, rights, warrants, bonds and/or other securities, and to execute the instruments proper or necessary to effect any such purchases and/or transfers, and the sale of other assets including real property.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Chief Executive Officer and/or Chief Financial Officer acting for and on behalf of this Corporation, and its affiliated Corporations, and as its act and deed be, and they are, empowered and authorized to: borrow money, obtain lines of credit, authorize company credit cards, execute notes, grant security, execute security documents, negotiate items, acquire, lease or dispose of assets including vehicles and other property and equipment in the ordinary course of operations of the organization.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That any and all resolutions heretofore adopted, inconsistent with the above resolution, be and they are hereby rescinded.

He noted that the following would be dealt by him: I HEREBY CERTIFY That the foregoing is a true and correct copy of a resolution passed at a regular meeting of the Board of the U. S. Ski and Snowboard Association, a corporation duly authorized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of Utah, held on the 6th day of October, 2010 at the USSA Center of Excellence, 1 Victory Lane, Park City, UT and I further certify that due notice of said meeting was given to each member of said Board; that a quorum was present and voting throughout and that said resolution is now in full force and effect and has not been amended or repealed.

USSA OFFICER AUTHORITY

To Whom It May Concern:

I hereby certify that the following individuals have been authorized by the Board of Directors of the U. S. Ski and Snowboard Association to hold the following positions and are authorized to conduct the business of this Corporation and its affiliates:

William Marolt
Mark Lampe

President and CEO
Chief Financial Officer

Natt asked for a motion to approve the corporate resolution as read into the record. Bucksbaum asked if all those authorities had been granted previously, such as selling of securities, and the like. Have those always been the powers in the past? Natt replied in the affirmative, that this was the resolution that we renewed on an annual basis.

Motion # 3: Motion to ratify the USSA Corporate Resolution & Officer Authority to conduct the business of the USSA Corporation & its Affiliates.

M/S/C – John Bucksbaum/John Cumming, approved by acclamation

Paine asked Glenn Eddy to discuss the USSA Freestyle Sport Committee Operating Procedure Amendments (Addendum B).

Eddy spoke about the recommended Freestyle Sport Committee operations changes. He said that these were the same that had been presented in the spring. It reflected a realignment of the subcommittee structure, combining the Judges and Rules & Tech subcommittees into one Rules & Officials' Subcommittee and adding a Freeride Subcommittee to deal with the issues in that new discipline, and then some housekeeping issues such as renaming some positions to be in line with the current staffing.

Natt stated that, as a point of information, he had asked, after the Congress in the spring, that the board be able to see a line in and line out of the changes to the procedures which we did not have prepared at the time of the spring meetings. He said that he had worked with the staff to prepare these and that he recommended their adoption.

Motion # 4: Motion to ratify the amendments to the Freestyle Sport Committee Operating Procedures as presented.

M/S/C – Dexter Paine/Bob Dart, approved by acclamation

Paine asked Luke Bodensteiner to speak to the Youth Olympic Games selection criteria (Addendum C).

2012 YOUTH OLYMPIC GAMES SELECTION CRITERIA

Bodensteiner stated that, as all the board members were aware, the inaugural summer Youth Games took place this August in Singapore. The first winter edition of the Youth Olympic Games would take place in Innsbruck in January of 2012. As the USOC operated the summer Youth Games, they wanted to get through that event before providing the winter NGBs with guidelines for operating procedures and selection criteria.

Post-Summer Youth Games, they informed the USSA that they wanted the team entries in November of 2011. Since we didn't have opportunities to provide qualifications for the athletes at the age for which they were eligible for the competition that early in the season, the decision was to make our team selection events this winter and, in some cases, such as ski jumping and Nordic combined, the fall. The sport directors in conjunction with the sport committee chairmen and athlete representatives and, in some cases, additional members of the sport committees, developed the procedures that were sent to you. These had also been approved in advance by the USOC. We were seeking approval on these criteria now so that we could get the procedures published and disseminated to the athletes and coaches prior to the start of the season.

Paine asked, given how much kids change at that age and that as we were qualifying kids so far in advance, had we taken into consideration as part of the equation, how much kids progress or regress? Bodensteiner replied that that had been considered. With the timing of the entries so early in the season, what we did not want to do was create additional travel or put too much pressure on the very early season and that was running counter to the long-term training principles that we had been promoting for our education programs. The second aspect was that the overt goal of the IOC and the USOC was less about performance and more about experience, sportsmanship and participation. He commented that we thought it appropriate to do the selections this year and not force additional costs of travel or different kinds of training for the athletes in the early season and winter of '12. He added that we still thought that through the selection criteria we would get the top-level athletes in any case.

Paine asked if there were any other questions and he asked Bodensteiner whether these were for all of the disciplines. Bodensteiner replied that one point to note was that the freestyle program would not include aerials or moguls but would include a ski Halfpipe. This was a program that had been determined by the IOC, and that the FIS had very little influence on the events that were selected.

Paine asked for a motion for approval.

Motion # 5: Motion to ratify the 2012 Youth Olympic Games criteria as presented.

M/S/C – John Bucksbaum/Bob Dart, approved by acclamation

USSA MEMBER DUES AND FEES

Bodensteiner asked to bring up one more item and that was the USSA Membership dues structure for FY 11/12 (Addendum D). He said he wanted to touch quickly on that and that we were now a little more than a year into the on-line membership registration system. Bodensteiner said that, as had been reported in last October's meeting, we felt that it would be prudent to get at least one year's experience with that system to be able to look at new member trends before making any fee changes.

At this point we were able to start to see trends and were generally positive as to numbers and where the revenue numbers were going. We also knew that right now families were still impacted on the discretionary income side and so were recommending no changes to the membership fee or dues increases for the FY '11/12 in any category in any sport. He said that this would again be reevaluated next fall for FY '12/13.

One other item of note for the board on the FIS fees, the FIS member fees in all sports would increase by $5 next year, which was due to a competitor death and disability surcharge imposed by the FIS, which was passed along to the national associations; this was not a fee reset that required board approval, but informational for everyone.

Dart asked about the potential change of the age alignment on the alpine side that would take place in FY '12/13, so any dues increases would have to be dealt with at the May meeting? Bodensteiner replied that typically dues changes were dealt with at the fall meeting, but these were disbursed for committee discussion prior to that in August or September. The initial discussions at the time of the USSA Congress would revolve around what happens with the age change in alpine; and the fee approval would still take place at the fall meeting.

12. Next USSA Board Meeting Date: Dexter Paine

Paine said that the next annual meeting of the board would take place at the USSA Congress with the sport committee meetings preceding the board meeting; dates had been determined for 2011 and the USSA Board of Directors' meeting would be Sunday morning May 22, 2011 at the Center of Excellence. The structure and format would remain the same with the Awards dinner taking place on the Friday night. He asked everyone to please put the date on their calendars.

13. Chairman's Closing Comments & Motion to Adjourn the Board Meeting: Dexter Paine

Paine invited the members of the USSA Board of Directors to attend the USSTF Board of Trustees' meeting, chaired by John Cumming, on December 4 at the Sonnenalp in Vail; the meetings took place December 2-5 and to plan to attend if available in early December.

Paine said that he would welcome anyone on the USSA board who would like to attend the committee work sessions to do so; other than executive, the sessions were open. The weekend events were terrific, including some interaction with athletes who were competing.

Paine asked if there were any other questions before moving to executive session. There were none so he asked for a motion to adjourn the board meeting.

Motion # 6: To adjourn the USSA Board of Directors' Meeting.

M/S/C – Bob Dart/Tim Tetreault, approved by acclamation

The USSA Board of Directors then met in Executive Session.
